MR. BRYAN NOTIFIED.

He Addressed An Immense Crowd at Indianapolis Yesterday.

HEARTILY CHEERED

Mr. Stevenson Made a Stirring Speech Was Applauded at Every Sentence—Webster Davis Did Little Talking at Night.

Indianapolis, Aug. 9.—Hon. W. J. Bryan and Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson were yesterday in this city officially and formally notified of their nominations by the Democrats at their recent Kansas City convention to the offices respectively of president and vice president of the United States. The ceremony was made the occasion of a popular demonstration and with it the Democrats may be fairly said to have begun their national campaign.

The notification occurred in Military Park, a beautifully shaded tract of ground in the center of the city. The park contains probably 30 acres and was well covered with people.

Several members of the Democratic national committee were present in addition to the members of the two committees to make the official notification.

The ceremony was preceded by a parade, which was participated in by a number of visiting and local Democratic clubs. These acted as an escort to the notification party and the cavalcade was an imposing one. The meeting began a few minutes after 3 o'clock and concluded at 5:40 p. m. In this time five speeches were made, a welcoming address by Mayor Taggart of Indianapolis, the two notification speeches by Representative Richardson and Governor Thomas, and the responses by Mr. Bryan and Mr. Stevenson.

The platform on which the speeches were made was elevated about six feet above the park lawn and upon it sat the candidates and their families and the members of the national committee and of the two notification committees as well as a few invited guests. Mr. Bryan sat near the center of the stage, just to the left of Chairman Jones, who presided. Mrs. Bryan and her son, William Jr., occupying adjoining chairs. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson also sat in the same group, as did Mrs. Jones, Mr. Richardson and Gov. and Mrs. Thomas.

Senator Jones made no speech upon taking the chair, but confined his remarks to the simple introduction of speakers to the audience.

Mr. Richardson, to whose lot as permanent chairman of the national convention fell the duty of notifying Mr. Bryan of his nomination, made the first notification address.

Probably no man ever made an important speech under greater difficulties than those which beset Mr. Richardson, but he acquitted himself creditably under the circumstances. He arose only to face a sea of up-turned faces. The sun was throwing its rays directly upon many of them, and besides they were to hear Mr. Bryan. In this crowd, which was so dense that a hand which was down could not be raised and one which was raised could not be lowered, were old men, frail women and some children. Soon the mass began to sway back and forth through the efforts of those in the rear to get nearer the speakers. There were a few screams, more groans, and it became necessary to get some of the feeblest out of the crush. There were loud cries of "cut it short," "give Bryan a chance," "we can't stand it here," and other signs of impatience.

For a time Mr. Richardson did not appear perturbed by this clamor but where appeared to be real danger of serious results he brought his remarks to a somewhat precipitate close, speaking for only about 15 minutes. Notwithstanding the general confusion Mr. Richardson was applauded in many places and especially so when he referred to the "Sulu slavery and oriental harems," included in the Philippine acquisition.

There was an immediate change of deportment on the part of the crowd when Mr. Bryan arose. He was introduced at 3:30 by Chairman Jones and, as for the occasion, a light breeze sprang up, which had the effect of bringing some relief to the overheated and much crowded mass of people.

Mr. Bryan read his speech, departing not from his manuscript except in a word of explanation at the beginning of his address. The Democratic leader never appeared to better advantage. His face was slightly flushed but his eye was clear and calm and his voice was never more completely at his command. His manner was calm and cool. His clear voice was far reaching and that he was heard at a great distance was made evident by the fact that people far out in the crowd listened apparently as intently as did those who sat on the platform. Apparently no strong point was lost to any one present.

Among the sentiments of the speech which were applauded with especial zest were those declaring that under existing circumstances "we dare not educate the Filipinos lest they learn to read the declaration of independence and the constitution of the United States," that he would never agree to exchange the glory of this country for that of all the empires; that "it is not necessary to own a people in order to trade with them" and that "the command 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel' has no Gatling gun attachment."

There was also cheering over the promise to convene congress immediately to remedy the Philippine situation if elected, but no part of the address received the earnest commendation that was bestowed upon the prerogative. This called out an outburst that was both tumultuous and prolonged.

The closing sentences were repeated from memory. The extemporaneous introduction was as follows:

"I feel that I owe an apology or an explanation to the people who are to listen for the fact that I must read what I am going to say. It would be more pleasant to me and more agreeable to you to speak without notes; but I want to address that larger constituency which we reach through the newspapers, for it is a thousand times as numerous as any crowd that could assemble here, and therefore in order that I may speak to all throughout the land, I have committed to writing what I desire to say, and will ask for your indulgence while I read my speech."

Mr. Bryan concluded at 4:40 and was followed by Governor C. S. Thomas of Colorado who introduced Mr. Stevenson. Mr. Thomas spoke for only 10 minutes, but he made a very effective speech. He did not use notes.

Mr. Stevenson was apparently slightly nervous as the time approached for him to take the stand, but he soon gained confidence as he proceeded. Mr. Bryan led in the liberal applause which greeted the appearance of his fellow candidate as he advanced to the front, and many points of the speech were liberally punctuated by a repetition of this applause. He read from his manuscript, but held the majority of his audience to the end.

Mr. Stevenson closed at 6:20 o'clock and Senator Jones immediately declared the meeting adjourned sine die. Mr. Stevenson was liberally applauded when he closed.

ROBERTS REPORTS.

He Fears That a Garrison Has Been Captured by the Boers.

London, Aug. 9.—General Roberts fears that the Elands river garrison has been captured after 10 days' resistance. The war office has received from him the following dispatch:

"Pretoria, Aug. 7.—Delacy, hearing of Ian Hamilton's approach toward Rustenburg and seeing that he had no chance of capturing Baden-Powell, hurried off to Elands river. Hamilton reported that firing in the direction of Elands river ceased yesterday and that Lieut. Hoares garrison had evidently been captured.

"Hamilton left Rustenburg this morning bringing Baden-Powell's force with him.

DeWet commanded crossing the Vaal river yesterday. Kitchener is now moving in pursuit. Methuen, on the right bank of the Vaal, has evidently come into contact with DeWet's guard, as his guns were heard by Kitchener this morning."

UNCLE SAM'S WISH.

Free Communication With Ministers and Foreigners in Pekin.

THE THIRD CLAUSE.

Attention Is Called to the Third Clause of the President's Note to the Chinese Government—Protection of Foreigners.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The state department has made public the following memorandum sent Wednesday to the Chinese government through Minister Wu:

"We are availing ourselves of the opportunity offered by the imperial edict of Aug. 5, of allowing foreign ministers free communication with their respective governments in cipher, and have sent a communication to Minister Conger to which we await an answer. We are already advised by him in a brief dispatch received Aug. 7, that the imperial troops are firing daily upon the ministers in Pekin. We demand immediate cessation of hostile attacks by the imperial troops upon the legations and urge the exercise of every power and energy of the imperial government for the protection of the legations and all foreigners therein. We are also advised by the same dispatch from Minister Conger that in his opinion for the foreign ministers to leave Pekin as proposed in the edict of Aug. 2, would be certain death.

"In view of the fact that the imperial troops are now firing upon the legations and in view of the doubt expressed by the imperial government in its edict of Aug. 2, as to its power to restore order and secure absolute safety in Pekin, it is evident this apprehension is well founded, for if your government cannot protect our minister in Pekin, it will presumptively be unable to protect him upon the journey from Pekin to the coast.

"We, therefore, urge upon the imperial government that it adopt the course suggested in the third clause of the letter of the president to his majesty, the emperor of China, of July 23, 1900, and enter into communication with the relief expedition so that cooperation will be secured between them for the liberation of the legation, protection of foreigners and the restoration of order.
Such action on the part of the imperial government would be a satisfactory demonstration of friendliness and desire to attain these ends."

THE ROUTE TO PEKIN.

A Chinaman Gives a Description of the Road and Says It Will Be Hard Work.

New York, Aug. 9.—The country over which the allied forces are now fighting is, according to all accounts, of a sort to make it a wonderful accomplishment to reach Pekin in the face of a superior force. W. Kai Kee of this city, who has traversed the route between Tien Tsin and Pekin several times, having gone from South China by the grand canal, says of the country:

"Near Tien Tsin it is a waste of marshes with lagoons and wandering rivers. The Chang Ho, the Hun Ho and smaller streams join the Pei Ho somewhere in the mesh, but are very much confused. About the city to the north are rice fields and gardens. Beyond these are the marshes, across which the railway is built on an embankment, made of bamboos driven in earth, the space between the two rows being filled in.

"At Pei Chang (Pei Tsang) the first good ground is found. It is 60 li (20 miles) from the town. The newspapers have much misstated distances, because Chinese miles are one-third of English miles.

"Here are great ricefields, stretching for many miles, with embankments built by the province along the river, which is very crooked, and with earth paths running every few yards through the rice. The water being very low, these paths and embankments would make natural trenches for fighting. Only on boats in the river or along the railway can artillery be used.

"For 20 miles here and all about Yang Tsun, which means 'dust and mud,' are mud flats, which at this season are dry and baked. The last summer I was along the road we often had to lie down and cover up our heads while the dust storms went by. It is as bad to march through as water. Lafa Sang, or the 'last place of the mud,' is where the low hills, covered with grass, begin to rise and the country from there on to Pekin is fine and rolling, with many villages, rich farms and gardens.

"Before Lafa Sang is reached there is not one stone as big as a man's fist which is natural to the ground and not one tree as high as a man too be seen anywhere. If the soldiers stay long near the rivers, which in the summer time have an awful smell, they will next month become ill with fever and very many will die.

"There are not many people living between Lafa Sang and Tien Tsin except the Chinese whom the railway keeps at work on the track to watch it so the water, some times flows in two different directions within an hour, will not carry away a mile of it some day."

BATTLING AT WACO.

Democratic Hosts Are at Loggerheads in the Convention.

Waco, Tex., Aug. 9.—The most acrimonious and bitter fight in the history of the Democratic party of Texas since the day when Richard Coke dethroned Edward J. Davis is on. The forces are lined up in battle array. There was skirmishing, today the decisive battle will be fought. It will be a battle royal with the state administration and Hon.
Joseph Weldon Bailey pitted against ex-Governor James S. Hogg and Hon.
M. M. Crane of Dallas. Hogg and Crane are arrayed against Bailey and Tom Smith of Hill county and only a call of the roll will settle the struggle.

It was announced that a truce had been patched up between the contending factions, that Mayor Hicks of San Antonio had been slated for temporary and Hon. R. E. Prince of Navarro for permanent chairman of the convention.

Hon. Cecil Smith of Grayson came down in the interest of harmony at the request of the Bailey managers. Mayor Hicks was not an original Bailey man, but he was willing to concede that the Bailey element was in the saddle. This made him temporary chairman, and also drove the blade into the vitals of Mr. Smith. Prince of Navarro under the deal will be recommended for permanent chairman when the convention is in the proper spirit to receive a committee report.

At the afternoon session, which began at 5 o'clock and closed at 9 o'clock, the fight was fast and furious.

Congressman Bailey opened the ball in an hour's speech in which he flayed alive those who have imputed to him improper motives in connection with the reli-censing of the Waters-Pierce Oil company to do business in Texas. Mr. Bailey was very sensational, very dramatic in his utterances at times and closed by denouncing those who were fighting him as "scoundrels" and "liars."

Mr. Bailey's partisans yelled themselves hoarse during the time he occupied the platform.

There were several thousand persons present and they were wildly enthusiastic at times.

Ex-Gov. Hogg followed Mr. Bailey.
His remarks were free from personalities, but were strong and characteris-tically Hogg. The ex-governor repeated his Galveston speech with variations, denounced the daily newspapers and called upon the delegates to the convention to repudiate the action of Attorney General Smith and Secretary of State Hardy.

Then came Crane of Dallas, the ex-attorney general, who fought the trust fight to a finish, and who used vigorous language in denouncing the action of the state officials for readmitting the Waters-Pierce Oil company to do business in the state.

Hon. Thomas S. Smith of Hillsboro, attorney general of Texas, closed the debate in a speech lasting two hours and 40 minutes. He compared his record with the records of his predecessors, Messrs. Hogg and Crane, and made one of the most vigorous addresses ever heard in a Democratic convention in Texas. Attorney General Smith was sensational and personal and was given a wonderful ovation by his partisans.

At the conclusion of his remarks the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning after an almost continuous session of seven hours.

The sub-committee refused to recommend a plank proposing the adoption of a constitutional amendment having for its effect the levying of a special tax for the maintenance of the State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Similar action was taken with reference to the proposition to adopt a constitutional amendment providing a 6-year term for members of the boards of directors of the state eleemosynary institutions.

A recommendation of the 8-hour labor law on all public works, and also compulsory arbitration in settling differences between employer and employe was agreed upon.

The committee, it is announced, will favor a slight increase in fees of certain county officers, with a maximum in each instance. It will also recommend the passage of an act prohibiting the use of money in elections and requiring candidates to file itemized statements of campaign expenditures with certain officers to be selected by the legislature.

A resolution recommending that the state executive committee fix a day for uniform primaries for state officers to be held and denying representation to those refusing to obey, was agreed upon.
The report will also recommend the establishment of an industrial school for girls and the passage of a libel law defining civil libel.

The subcommittee agreed to recommend a plank condemning double-heading roads and demanding its abolition, except on steep and continuous grades.

Two of the resolutions were laid on the table. One instructed the Texas delegation in congress to secure the removal of the raft at the mouth of the Colorado river. The other provides for the navigation of the Brazos river to this city.

The Body Laid Away.

Rome, Aug. 9.—The body of King Humbert arrived here from Monza and deposited in the Pantheon with imposing ceremonies. The streets were filled with people who uncovered their heads as long as the cortege was in sight and gave other tokens of respect and sorrow.
King Victor Emanuel marched on foot at the head of the procession, followed by a number of princes of the royal house of Italy.

BRITISH SHIRKING.

Landing Troops at Shanghai Instead of Taku, to Protect Their Province.

London, Aug. 9.—The flooded country beyond Pei Tsang adds immeasurably to the difficulty of the progress of the allies towards Peking. The news, says Shanghai correspondence from Tien Tsin, contains statements to the effect that the situation in Tien Tsin is again perilous owing to the assembling of Chinese troops within striking distances. Losses of the allies in recent operations are now said to be 1130 men, of which number the Russians lost 600, Japanese 410 and British 120.

International suspicion has broken out among the consuls at Shanghai on account of the determination of the British to land there a brigade of Indian troops. It is reported the French will also land troops at Shanghai to the number of 1200 men.

While the ministers at Peking remain unrelieved, it is not understood why Great Britain should divert the forces destined for the relief of the expedition to garrison a place where peace thus far has been undisturbed.

A News Agency dispatch from Che Foo, dated Sunday, Aug. 6, says a messenger from Peking reports that the dowager empress has sent four cartloads of food to the legations on July 28.

The British foreign office is understood to have suppressed portions of the last dispatch of the British minister at Peking on the ground of his explicit statements regarding the quantity of food and ammunition available might be useful to the enemy.

RUSSIA AND AUSTRIA.

Count Lamsdorff's Appointment Breaks up the Franco-Russian Alliance.

New York, Aug. 9.—A dispatch to The Journal from Paris says:

Count Lamsdorff's appointment by the czar as minister of foreign affairs has created something akin to a panic here in political and foreign circles. The count has always leaned more strongly in favor of an understanding with Germany and Austria than with France, and is known here as a pronounced adversary of the Franco-Russian alliance. The latter has become very strained since the Parisian financiers declined to have anything to do with floating the last Russian loan and the sudden recall to St. Petersburg of the Russian Generalissimo Dragomiroff, and chief of the general staff, who were here in consultation with the French war department, followed by Count Lamsdorff's appointment, seems to indicate the alliance for the sake of which France has made such big sacrifices, is on the eve of rupture.

Has No Information.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The state department has no information from Consul-General Goodnow relative to the alleged protest lodged by him against the landing of British troops at Shanghai. Department officials express the opinion that Goodnow would not take such a step without consulting the authorities here.

Prices Set on Foreigners' Heads.

New York, Aug. 9.—A special cable from Tien Tsin says documents found in the native city of Tien Tsin prove that official encouragement was given to the rebels; also that prices were set on foreigners' heads, the highest figures being set on those of Americans.

An Imperial Edict.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The Chinese minister has received a copy of an imperial edict of Aug. 2, which was delayed in transmission. It directs the safe conduct of the foreigners to Tien Tsin, and warns Jung Lu to select efficient officials to give this safe conduct.

Five Priests Killed.

Lyons, Aug. 9.—The Catholic Journal announces new massacres and disaster to missions in the southeast province of Chi Li. It says five priests have been killed.

ROBERTS EXPLAINS.

He Depended on Carrington to Relieve The Garrison, But He Failed.

London, Aug. 9.—The following report dated Pretoria, Aug. 8, has been received from Roberts:

"Kitchenor was informed yesterday by an escaped British prisoner that De Wet's wagons had crossed the Vaal. Afterwards I heard the sound of guns which I think must have been Methuen's, as I directed him to take up a position between Potchefstroom and Lindique where he could intercept the enemy who crossed the river at DeWetsdorp. Kitchenor is crossing the Vaal with cavalry and mounted infantry. Hunter reports that he made 4140 prisoners in Bethlhem-Harrismith district, a majority of whom are now enroute for Cape Town. Three guns and 4000 horses were captured, and 10 wagon loads of ammunition and 195,000 rounds of ammunition were destroyed.

"The garrison at Elands river, which I fear has been captured, consisted of about 300 bushmen and Rhodesians. I had hoped Carrington had been in time to withdraw the garrison, but it seems Delacey, learning of Ian Hamilton's approach to Rustenburg, hurried westward and surrounded the garrison before Carrington arrived. Methuen telegraphs he engaged a part of DeWet's force yesterday near Benterakroon. He drove the enemy off of a succession of hills which they held obstinately. Our casualties were seven men killed or wounded, including four officers."

Miss Orrille Lincoln.

Miss Orrille Lincoln died yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. A. Lincoln, in this city, after a lengthy illness. Miss Lincoln was 35 years old and had lived in Bryan with her mother and sister, Miss Mary Lincoln, many years. She also leaves a brother who resides in Louisiana. Kind friends assisted loved ones in contributing every possible comfort during her illness and all unite in sympathy with the remaining members of the family.

The funeral will take place from the family residence this morning at 10 o'clock.

Focke, Wilkins & Lange.

Capt. S. M. Derden returned from the Waco convention yesterday and reported the Waters-Pierce oil question still a red hot topic with sentiment divided. He said nothing had been done towards nominations up to noon, the time he left, the committees not having completed their work. He said the race for railroad commissioner was the hottest on hand, both sides claiming the advantage, and that Judge Reagan said Judge Storey would win.

STILL IN SESSION.

The Waco Convention in a Wrangle Over the Platform in Committee.

Waco, Tex., Aug. 9.—News from the platform committee is to the effect that they are engaged in a wrangle equal to that that disturbed the convention. Barry Miller of Dallas, is leading a fight on the Hogg amendments and another row before the convention is almost sure to be pulled off. In fact, the entire convention is in a scrappy mood. Tom Bell and Will Cummins of Hillsboro, threatened to pull Chairman Hicks off the platform during this morning's roll call. They were for the minority report and did not like the chairman's rulings. Everybody appears to be looking for a scrap. There never was a more marked change in a body of men than that which came over this convention in one hour.

The bitter party strife is not doing the party any good. There is not a man who does not admit that Wednesday's dirty linen laundering in not an incentive and an encouragement to both the Republicans and Populists of Texas. It is conceded that were the 1896 fight on again the opposition to the Democracy would have a splendid chance to win. Not since 1892 has the discord in the ranks been one-half so irreconcilable. The wounds made on the organization during the past twenty-four hours may require years in which to heal.

Waco, Tex., Aug. 9.—The turbulence and belligerency of the convention during last night's session were still present this morning. The convention voted to reassemble at 9 o'clock, but it was a full hour later when Chairman Hicks attempted to make the delegates come to his gavel had little or no effect upon them, however, and the noise and confusion were very marked. Attorney General Smith was given a rousing cheer as he walked to his seat in the Hill county delegation. The delegates showed plainly that his speech Wednesday night reached their hearts.

There were calls for Bailey, Panhandle Hall and other favorites.

The credentials committee was not ready and further delay and more disorder ensued. When the committee was ready to appear a semblance of order was maintained and A. F. Brigrance, of Navasota, was recognized to read the majority report. In brief, it allowed proxies wherever duly given.

Farmer Shaw, of Dallas, read the minority report signed by himself and five others.

E. W. Hall, of Vernon, opened the discussion for the majority. In his speech he pitched into Farmer Shaw and Dallas county. Farmer Shaw followed and fairly "blistered" the Panhandle orator. T. E. Yantis of Van Zandt spoke for the minority. There were calls for Bailey, but he declined to speak.

It required 30 minutes to restore even a shadow of quiet.

There were all kinds of motions and the convention was fairly riotous. Judge John H. Reagan moved to table the minority report and a long, feverish roll call began.

Long before the end of the roll call on the Reagan motion to table the minority report, it became evident that the adherents of the majority report were largely in the majority. Before the vote could be announced Hatton W. Summers of Dallas moved to make the vote tabling the minority report unanimous. It was carried in a whoop and the majority report was then adopted without division. This was all the business attempted at the morning session.

MR. BRYAN'S PLANS.

He Will Make Several Speeches During this Month, One on Labor Day.

Indianapolis, Aug. 9.—Wm. J. Bryan, looking none the worse for the trying ordeal through which he had passed, came down in a carriage from Mayor Toggart's home. Many people on the streets recognized him as the carriage passed, but he slipped into the Grand hotel almost unnoticed. He did not get for, however, before he was surrounded by a crowd that had been lounging about the hotel lobby. Although he had been the central figure of the rush of thousands of people for over 48 hours, he was apparently in better physical condition than a majority of the men who greeted him. He went through his usual handshaking.

Mr. Bryan had nothing to say as to what the influence of the notification would have on the Indiana voters. On being asked if he did not regard the notification as the opening of the national campaign for his party, he said he did. Discussing his plans for the immediate future, he said:

"I have two more notification speeches to make, my letter of acceptance to issue, speech at the Grand Army encampment and a speech somewhere on Labor Day. I don't know, however, where I shall speak Labor Day. I have promised to come here to the meeting of the National Association of Democratic clubs in September and I will be present."

Mr. Bryan said when asked if he would make another tour of the country during this campaign as he did in 1896. "I don't believe in making one's plans known so far ahead. There are likely to be changes and then the newspaper men go to figuring why promises are not kept. I have given you my plans for a month ahead, and you ought to be satisfied at that."

Had to Give Up the Note Book.

One of the raconteurs of the Philadelphia Art Club, a man of rather convivial habits, was unbosoming himself recently over a small bottle "My memory isn't what it used to be," he is quoted as saying, "and yet, once a man gains a reputation as a story teller, he has to keep it up. It used to be that I could hear a story told, and I could remember it and often, in retelling it, if I do say it myself, I could usually improve it in the way of original embellishments. Two or three years ago however, I discovered that my memory was rather going back on me and I supplied myself with a little notebook small enough to be concealed in my waistcoat pocket. When I would get with a crowd of good fellows, and I would hear a new story, I would excuse myself and surreptitiously jot down a suggestion of it in my notebook. Of course I wouldn't have time to outline it, but would just write down some little reminder calculated to bring it all back to my mind the next day. Sometimes it would work and sometimes it wouldn't. It seemed to depend largely upon how the drinks were coming. The days when my mind seemed befogged, that notebook would drive me to distraction. I would look over my hieroglyphics in the morning and decipher such sentences as: 'Buying watch with whiskers in ears,' or 'Smith's watchman and new baby,' or 'Old maid's tonic,' or some equally absurd sentence, that conveyed absolutely no meaning to me. Really, I grew alarmed, and that's why I have dispensed with my notebook. I would much rather trust to my memory. I think it's safer."

"Camille" Barred in London.

Incidental to some remarks about "Sapho," John Drew says that the playing of "Camille" is not now permitted in London. It was forbidden by the lord high chamberlain soon after it was first performed, and has been interdicted ever since. This makes Mrs. Carter's contemplated performance of "Zaza" in the English metropolis an interesting venture.

A Burial Reformer.

Rev. Mr. A. B. Church, pastor of the Universalist church at Akron, O., urges the doing away with coffins and says the dead should be interred with only a shroud wrapped around them. He says that caskets prolong decomposition and should, therefore, be abandoned. He would also do away with hearses and funeral cars as useless expenses.

Railway Soldiers.

A stranger in Central Asia, a correspondent tells an Eastern paper, sees some of the humors of the military railway which no doubt escape the notice of the people who are used to such an administration. The station masters at important places are officers and at the smaller stations noncommissioned officers. The dining car, which accompanies the trains on the Trans-Caspian railway four days each week, was another source of pleasure. It was an ordinary third class car with the seats removed. A long table ran down the center of the car, with half a dozen wooden chairs on either side. The table was covered with oilcloth, and at night was lighted with two or three candles. The impressive thing about it, however, was the military precedence observed. With a soldier for a waiter, of course, it was necessary for him to serve dinner in the order of their rank, no matter what order they might have been in time of arrival.
